

Competency Assessor Training – Medication Administration

Safe supervision of medication dispensing

Specialist training in evidencing and competency

Competency Assessor Training is a two-day course designed to equip senior healthcare professionals with the skills to ensure their teams safely administer medication in the workplace or during home visits, and that assessors are proficient in safety approvals.

The comprehensive training addresses the challenge of demonstrating assessor competencies in accordance with the CQC and OFSTED standards.

Course content

The course content is engaging, interactive and informative, designed to refresh skills and remove complacency. Practical activities are combined with up-to-date legislation, applicable to all healthcare scenarios, to ensure the right questions are asked.

- Foundation principles
- Understanding NICE Guidance, Fundamental Standards and more
- Recognising roles and responsibilities
- Spotting and reducing errors
- Assessing risks and preventing accidents
- Effectively challenging a medical professional
- Proficiently assessing and approving ways to dispense and administer medication

Participants are encouraged to think about different scenarios, skill levels and to understand the importance of how the little things can impact a patient's life.

Who is this course designed for?

This two-day course is designed to assess the current knowledge and practical medication dispense experience of senior healthcare professionals.

The course content will ensure that all participants understand the fundamental competencies before building expertise to empower confidence and competencies to assess the knowledge and skills of their team.
