

Medication training for schools

Quality medication administration

Medication training for schools delivered by expert pharmacists

Every education provider has a requirement to meet OFSTED and Care Quality Commission standards.

Momentum People has designed medication training that is specific to the education sector and relevant to all nurses, healthcare assistants, teaching assistants and personnel required to administer medicines on site.

Course content

This course will provide participants with practical training as refresher or foundation knowledge covering all aspects of safe medication provision.

The training is relevant for all health personnel working in nurseries, schools, colleges, universities and other public or private education establishments.

- Legislation and guidance
- Medication labelling, storage and disposal
- Record keeping
- Over the counter medication
- Specialised medication administration
- Confidentiality and consent
- Dose instructions
- Medication errors and reducing risk
- Side effects and adverse reactions
- How to administer tablets, liquids, patches, eye drops, inhalers etc

The course covers guidance on the broad medication requirements for the education sector with bespoke training available to meet the policies, procedures and paperwork for individual schools, colleges, universities or colleges.

If these principles are not in place, our trainers can help you to develop the appropriate measures and systems.

Course Outcome

At the end of the course, participants will understand best practice in administering medication and what to do if the medication is refused or expelled.

Practical and engaging guidance will bring participants up to speed with current legislation and how to manage, handle and store medication.

I would say it's a very good, in-depth course. I will be recommending it to my old workplace as they will benefit a huge amount from it. I will use and remember everything I have learned for as long as I administer any kind of medication.
